An Unusually Attractive Group of

Women's Smart Afternoon Frocks

will be placed on Sale Thursday and Friday at 29.75

Combining the mode of the drape with the mode of the side panel is the obligation of this one frock at the left that requires nothing more than its heavy crepe back satin to make it an unusual value at 29.75. A colorful buckle at the right catches both the drape and the gathers of a lowered waist line. In black, navy and brown. Sizes 36 to 46.

That same combination of drapes and panels reveals a diplomatic artistry of design in with the added marks of distinction of a rosette of the material outlined in silver braid, and the new sleeve that is open on top from the shoulder to the wrist. Bands of contrasting material down the edge of the drape cuff give rise to such wearable color combinations as brown and maillard, navy and gray and black and gray. Sizes 36 to 42.

Important August Sale of Furs

A Recent Importation of Luxurious Paris-Made

Full Length Caracul Kid Coats

at the unusually low price of 175.00

In the new fur fashions for Winter, 1922, black caracul stands out as one of the graceful, fastidious furs for the woman who is at once conservative and smart.

These coats are of unusually fine deep-furred pelts—European dyed skins that have been perfectly matched to reveal all the hidden glints of black caracul, and so fashioned that every possible advantage is derived—the warmth, the full swing, the smartness and the inclination toward the longer, fuller and more enveloping outer garment.

And amazingly low priced, too!
